

African American Museum

Community African American History Class "Plus" (On-Line)

Thursdays at 7:00 – 9:00 pm
November 5, 2020 to January 21, 2021

Registration fee: donation to the African American Museum of $100.00.

For more information, contact: Dr. W. Marvin Dulaney at wmdulaney@aamdallas.org, or 214-565-9026 ext. 313

Community African American History Course Plus Topics

- November 5 - Course Introduction and the Rise of African American Historiography
- November 12 - Black History Then and Now Discussion: The Myth of American Exceptionalism-with Ms. Joy Strickland
- November 19 - Africans in Colonial and Revolutionary America
- November 26 - No Class
- November 19 - Africans in Colonial and Revolutionary America
- December 3 - Free African Americans in Antebellum America
- December 10 - Black History: Then and Now: Slavery and Christianity-with Ms. Joy Strickland
- December 17 - The Road to the Civil War: It Was All About Us!
- December 24 and December 31 - No Class
- January 7 - The Road to Jim Crow and the Nadir of African American History
- January 14 - Black History Then and Now: Justice Denied, Slavery, Jim Crow and the New Jim Crow
- January 21 - Origins of the American Civil Rights Movement and the Movement in Dallas

November 5, 2020 the African American Museum will launch the Fall session of the Community African American History Course Plus. Taught on line by historian Dr. W. Marvin Dulaney, this course will cover topics in the African American experience from the Colonial period of American history to contemporary times. A new "plus" feature of this course will be discussions led by Ms. Joy Strickland, former CEO of Mothers Against Teen Violence, on the second Thursday of every month. Entitled "Black History Then and Now," the discussions will focus on contemporary issues that affect African Americans and how history and historical events have shaped the contemporary African American experience.

Dr. W. Marvin Dulaney Ms. Joy Strickland

African American Museum

Black History Then and Now: An Online Community Discussion

Slave Patrols, the Militias of the Second Amendment

Then: The Slave Patrol

Now: Black Lives Matter

Then: The Black Vote

Now: Black Lives Matter

Join Our Online Community Discussion

In conjunction with its public programming for 2020-2021, the African American Museum is sponsoring an online community discussion on the second Thursday of each month on "Black History Then and Now." The discussions are open to the public and they will focus on how history and historical events have shaped the contemporary African American experience. The dates and topics of the discussions are:

November 5, 2020 – "The Myth of American Exceptionalism"

December 10, 2020 – "Slavery and Christianity"

January 14, 2021 – "Justice Denied: Slavery, Jim Crow and the New Jim Crow"

For more information and the Zoom link: email wmdulaney@aamdallas.org

3536 Grand Avenue | Dallas, Texas 75210 | 817-406-8443

Discussion Leaders

Dr. W. Marvin Dulaney

Historian and Deputy Director/COO of the African American Museum

Ms. Joy Strickland

Former CEO, Mothers Against Teen Violence

